

Tracy Gosselin, PhD, RN, AOCN

Chief Nursing & Patient Care Services Officer, Duke University Hospital

Tracy Gosselin became the Chief Nursing & Patient Care Services Officer for Duke University Hospital, including the inpatient, procedural units, and ambulatory care areas August 1, 2016. Before assuming this role, she served as the Associate Chief Nursing Officer for the Duke Cancer Institute and the Ambulatory Care Service Line. Her career began as a staff nurse in 1993 at Duke Hospital and she has served in clinical and administrative positions of increasing scope and responsibility throughout her career. Gosselin received her BSN degree from Northeastern University in Boston, Massachusetts, her MSN degree from Duke University in Durham, NC and her PhD degree from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, Utah. She is a member of numerous professional nursing organizations including the American Academy of Ambulatory Care Nursing, the American Organization of Nurse Executives, Sigma Theta Tau, the Oncology Nursing Society, the American Nurses Association, the North Carolina Nurses Association. She is a past recipient of a North Carolina Great 100 and actively publishes and presents in the areas of nursing and leadership. She serves as a Clinical Associate for the Duke University School of Nursing.